

Life Goes On

Words & Music by Ryan & Bearce
© 2001 All Rights Reserved

I can still remember every word you said.
The memory of you is etched into my head
And I'm sorry your leaving today
You gave me hope through all the doubt.
In a matter of days you pulled the rug out
And I'm sorry it had to happen that way

Sorry that you ran away.
You've got another that's okay.
I didn't want you anyway

Thanks for the lesson, thanks for the truth.
It took me a while to squeeze it out of you
And now I'm angry, I'm feeling pissed off
Some days I can almost get out of bed.
I put on some clothes I walk around half dead
I'm so tired, of playing this game

Tomorrow's just another day.
I don't expect anything to change.
More clouds more thunder on the way

Life goes on, I'll be so strong.
The lesson learned will last a whole life long
And I'll go on, on and on.

Here's to the future, here's to the truth.
As painful as it is it's what I want from you
So please tell me, where did we go wrong?
Tell me the answer. Tell me no lies.
Don't leave it to me to read between the lines
All I'm asking is that you tell the truth

I know it's hard for you to change.
I don't expect you to be a saint
But could you be an angel and fly away?

Life goes on, I'll be so strong.
I'll find someone who'll love me all night long
And we'll go on, on and on and on.